Questions and answers

What are starting prices?

Are the minimum prices at which lots will be sold. Starting prices are shown in the catalogue and online. These do not include the additional charges of VAT, buyer's premium of 7% and £80 assignment fee. You may like to check our auction sold facility: dvlaRegistrations.dvla.gov.uk/search/previous-auction-plates.html to see what similar registrations have sold for at previous auctions.

Where does the bidding start?

Bidding normally starts at the starting price, the auctioneers will take bids from the auction hall first even if there are absentee bids of the same value. When there are no bids in the auction hall and there are two competing absentee bids, the bidding will start at one bid (usually £100) more than the lower absentee bid. Where there are two identical absentee bids, the auctioneer will accept the one that was received first.

Are there any spending limits?

Anyone wishing to spend over £1,000 hammer price can increase this by clicking on 'spending limit' in their account. Bids will not be accepted above the spending limit, see website for more details.

What bids will the auctioneer take?

At the auctioneer's discretion, bids increase by a minimum of £50 where bidding is below £1,000 and £100 where bidding is above £1,000. Larger bid increments may apply as the hammer price increases.

What happens to registrations that do not reach their starting prices?

The auctioneer will not accept any bid on a registration that is below the published starting price. If a registration does not receive a bid at starting price or above, it will be declared as "Unsold" by the auctioneer. Unsold registrations are normally available to purchase for a few days after each auction, see website for details. The DVLA may, at its discretion, include such registrations in future auctions without prior notice.

Can I place a DVLA registration on a vehicle registered in Northern Ireland?

Registration numbers can be purchased from the DVLA if you live in Northern Ireland, and can be assigned directly onto a vehicle registered in GB or Northern Ireland.

Are there any extra costs required to assign a registration to a vehicle?

All registrations purchased in a DVLA auction are supplied on a V750 Certificate of Entitlement and the assignment fee is included in the final purchase price (see 'What will it cost?' breakdown on page 14). There is no further charge for DVLA to assign that registration to a vehicle registered in the name of either the Purchaser or the Nominee (if specified). Please note that some insurance companies may charge an administration fee to record the transfer of a registration mark onto a vehicle and to supply a new Certificate of Motor Insurance.

Can I request a registration to be included in a future auction?

Yes, please see the Help section at dvlaAuction.co.uk and follow the instructions to make your request.

Ways to bid

There are 4 ways in which you can bid, there is no charge to register or bid

You can choose to bid in person. Alternatively, for those who cannot attend, we offer telephone, internet, or absentee bidding.

Visit the Bidding Instructions page on our website to view a short video showing how to register as a bidder for the auction.

Bidding in person

There's nothing quite like being at the auction yourself and we strongly recommend that you bid in person. Bids in person will be given priority. You can pre-register allowing you to enter the auction without the need to register when you arrive. You will be emailed a QR code which you can present on arrival when you will be provided with a Bidder's Card.

Absentee bid

Let us know your maximum bid and you will secure your lot for just one bid increment (usually £50 or £100) higher than the last bid against you, without exceeding your maximum bidding limit. Please note deadlines apply for absentee bids (see page 4 for details).

Telephone bid

We will call you a few minutes before the registration is offered for sale. Limited to 3 calls per customer on a first come, first served basis. Please note application deadlines apply (see page 4 for details).

The full invoice total is shown each time you enter a bid (before you click 'Accept and bid'), so you will always know the total payable if you are successful. Late payment charges apply. Please see Terms & Conditions. Taxes, premiums and fees correct at time of printing.

Sale of registration marks regulations 1995

On the sale of a lot a legally binding contract is formed between the purchaser and the Secretary of State for Transport.

The purchaser has 10 years to assign the registration number to a chosen vehicle; the entitlement period can be extended shortly before expiry upon application.

Registration numbers can be assigned to a vehicle registered in the name of the Purchaser or a vehicle registered in the name of the Nominee. Following a purchase the Nominee details may be added or changed upon online application to the DVLA. There is no fee.

The registration number can be assigned to a vehicle which is registered, or about to be registered, in GB or Northern Ireland and which is an appropriate age to receive the registration number. At the time of assignment the vehicle must be licensed, of a testable type and have a test certificate in force, if applicable.

Once the registration has been assigned it may be transferred to another vehicle subject to the DVLA's transfer rules.

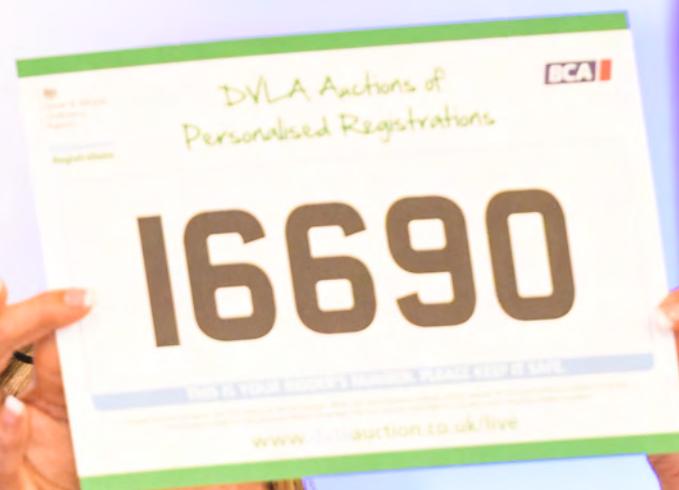

It is an offence to mis-represent the registration number in any way.
